What to keep to yourself

Read this first. Then answer the questions underneath.

Some things about you are private. Private means they belong to you and you choose who knows them.

Your full name, where you live, the name of your school, your phone number and photographs of you are all private.

A person you have met only on a screen is a stranger, however friendly they are and however long you have been talking. You would not tell a stranger in the street where you live, and this is the same thing.

1. What does private mean?

The first part explains it.

2. Name three private things.

Five are listed.

3. What is a person you have met only on a screen?

Two words.

4. WORK IT OUT Why does it not matter how friendly somebody online seems?

The passage compares it with the street.

What to do if something is wrong

Read this first. Then answer the questions underneath.

Sometimes something on a screen is upsetting, or frightening, or just does not feel right. When that happens there are three steps.

Stop. Do not answer and do not click anything else.

Leave it on the screen if you can, or remember what it was. Do not try to hide it.

Tell a grown up you trust, straight away.

You are never in trouble for telling. That is the most important sentence on this page, and it is true even if you were somewhere you should not have been.

1. What is the first step?

One word.

2. Who should you tell?

Each is a short paragraph.

3. What should you not do with the screen?

Three words.

4. When are you in trouble for telling?

One word.
